WATER MATTER GOES OVER TO MONDAY NIGHT

City Commission Rejects Pump Bids and Holds Engine Matter in Abeyance

EXTENSIONS GRANTED

All Contractors on Which Contracts Were Held Open Agree Extension to June 12

After wrestling with various phases of the water works contracts, this week, the city commission adjourned last evening after another four-hour session to meet Monday night at 8 o'clock.

The commission and citizens committee devoted the time to consideration of pump bids and the question of installing oil engines to supply electric power to pump the water. It was decided to reject all pump bids and advertise for new bids on June 25. The oil engine matter was left in abeyance.

It was stated that the commission and a committee favored a type of pump for the plant which was the highest in the pump bid and under the law it was necessary if the commission is to buy the apparatus it wants to reject bids and advertise for new ones.

A reply was received from all contractors who were asked to hold their bids open until June 12, stating that they would do so, Mayor Lennhart said.

The commission drew a contract with City Engineer Atkinson which is the same as the one under which he has been serving as city engineer, but was drawn anew because the commission has been reorganized in the meantime. The contract is for $60 a month and five per cent of contracts over $500. With respect to the water works contract Mayor Lennhart said the city engineer would pay for the services of L. P. Wolf, of St. Paul, consulting engineer, other engineers and all supervision necessary in handling the plant matter.

Mayor Lennhart said the commission felt that Mr. Atkinson's stand and engineering advice had been fully vindicated. The fact that low bids on the new plant were about $4,000 under the estimate of the city engineer on a $700,000 job was evidence that there had been no guess-work on the part of the engineering force but that the matter had been gone into thoroughly. He also said that the bids indicated that Mr. Atkinson had given the commission good advice throughout regarding the value of the present water company plant.

"TUT" RELICS TO MUSEUM

Widow of Earl of Carnarvon Sacrifices Fortune

London, June 2.—The Earl of Carnarvon's private collection of antiquities will be presented by his widow to the nation for the British museum, says the Daily Mail.

Lady Carnarvon thereby sacrifices the prospect of greatly adding to her wealth for Earl's will stipulated that if she decided to sell the collection the British Museum should be offered the first chance to refuse it for 20,000 pounds. This is said to be much below the actual value.

The newspaper asserts that the prospective gift will include whatever part of the treasure found in Tutankhamen's tomb is allotted to the Carnarvon estate by the Egyptian authorities.

Shoemaker Retires After 51 Years

Minot, N. D., June 2.—Fifty-one years of almost ceaseless toil as a shoemaker will be ended on June 20, when Hans Hanson of Minot, veteran in his profession, relinquishes ownership of his shop to Carl Nelson of Devils Lake.

Hans Hanson was a boy of 16 summers when 51 years ago as an apprentice he began pegging shoes back in Norway. This was the same year that the fabled belligerent cow was supposed to have knocked over a lantern in Chicago, causing the burning of the city. He worked for four years as an apprentice, without salary and with barely enough food for a growing boy to exist upon. Later he came to the United States and for the last 19 years has resided in Minot, where he has carried on his work.

The state of Vermont received its name from "verb mont," meaning Green Mountain.

"WHITE PLAGUE" WARS WITH BOLSHEVISM ON RELIGION

By Don P. Drohan
NEA Service Writer

Erie, Pa., June 2.—Tuberculosis is joining Bolshevism in a gigantic war on religion in crushed and bleeding Central Europe.

Trailing in starvation's wake, it is creating an appalling toll among the populace on Christianity's firing line.

Such is the pathetic picture Michael Cardinal Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, painted in an interview here.

In monasteries, convents and missions, where hungry women and children come begging for bread, the white plague—like a thief in the night—is sneaking.

"Our priests and nuns and the other religious workers, already slowly dying from malnutrition, fall easy victims to the dread disease," explains his eminence.

"Thousands have contracted it. Thousands more are suffering from softening of the bones owing to lack of proper food. Operations are out of question because of prohibitive costs."

No Work Available

"Other thousands are sacrificing their scanty morsels to hordes that storm their doors pleading for something to eat. They labor on indefinitely, without thought of themselves, until they're no longer able to remain on their feet."

"Such is the picture of the little children in the orphanages. And with men and women who are roaming the streets crying for work. But there is no work to give them."

"In the midst of all this poverty, disease and distress the materialistic philosophy of Bolshevism is certain to appeal. Bolshevism, however, is easier to combat than the plague. That we cannot stave off without aid from the outside."

"Only the generosity of other nations can save us. Your people have been very kind to us. And I know they shall be very kind to us. Though the dark days we have yet to go through."

"We appeal for no alms—merely a 'lift,' as you Americans put it. Some day we hope to pay our debt to the last mark."

"The United States to express my country's appreciation for what you have done toward leading us out of the chaos. My visit is the realization of my life's most cherished ambition."

Peace with America

"Even during the war, he continued, he was a champion of peace. Though I was impressed with the high regard our troops had for your soldiers. We found our most courageous foe our kindest friend."

"With great expectation I set foot upon your soil. Nor have I been disappointed. As though I were in another world."

The cardinal is one of the most distinguished theologians of modern times. From his pen have come many of the better known works on exegesis and homiletics.

Despite his profound scholarship, he is remarkably democratic. Cardinal Faulhaber cleverly circumvented an attempt to kiss his ring. He preferred the American way of shaking hands.

His face was wreathed in a pleasant smile. But a look of sadness displaced it as he told of the misery of his people.

His eminence got along splendidly without the assistance of an interpreter. He speaks excellent English.

WANTS PICTURE OF SOD HOUSE

A picture of the sod house of the emigrant is wanted by Dr. M. R. Gilmore, curator of the State Historical Society. Dr. Gilmore also would like to get an old-time breaking plow for the museum, a type now rarely seen.

INCENDIARY FIRES FEWER

A noticeable decrease in the number of incendiary, or suspected fires in North Dakota is noticeable, Henry L. Reade, state fire marshal, said today. Investigations throughout the state have shown him he said that the moral hazard is much better than in the last three years.

GRIM REMINDER OF WARFARE OF OLDEN DAYS RECEIVED HERE

A grim reminder of warfare between U. S. soldiers and the Indians in North Dakota more than a half century ago has been placed in the State Historical society. It is a metal canteen, picked up by Mrs. Oscar Anderson of Sterling of the site of the Stony Lake battlefield, north of Driscoll, Burleigh county. It was here that General Sibley and his command on July 27, 1863, met and defeated a band of Indians.

The battlefield and other sites notable in the expedition of General Sibley to the Missouri river during the Civil War when the Indians were stirred to resist the advance of the whites, were assisted here by Dr. Gilmore and Dana Wright.

They sought to locate the grave of Chaska, a friendly Dakota Indian who was in the U. S. service but not in the army. Because he was not in the army a soldier's marker for his grave cannot be obtained, but it is the intention of the society to provide a local marker anyway. The grave was in the General Sibley camp, several miles north of Driscoll, but when the soldiers left camp wagons were driven over the grave to level it and conceal its location from the enemy.

They also visited Sibley Butte, a rocky eminence several miles from the Stony Lake battlefield site. Why it is called Stony Butte is not known, according to Dr. Gilmore, as no military engagement was found near it. Mr. Wright's studies have shown.

FOUR MORE OF CAPTIVES IN CHINA FREED

Speedy Release of Other Captives Is Being Predicted by Relief Agents

AMERICANS INCLUDED

Last Captive to be Held Until Last Bandit Is Enrolled in Army

Tientsin, China, June 2.—Four more of the foreign captives held by the Suichow train bandits, one American, two British subjects and one Mexican citizen, have been released unconditionally and arrived at Suichow relief camp at Tiao Chwang according to a telegram from there. Those released today were Jerome Henly American, New York; employed by the Pearson-Daniel company at Shanghai; Edward Ellis and Theodore Saphire, both British subjects and brokers of Shanghai, and Manuel Veron, manufacturer, of Guadalajara, Mexico.

The dispatch from Tiao Chwang said prospects were for the speedy release of the eight other foreigners imprisoned on Paozuku mountain.

The international military commission reached Suichow today and sent an airplane to reconnoiter the bandits' position.

The other foreigners still held at last reports included four Americans: Major Roland Finger, ordinance department, U. S. A.; Leon Friedman of Chicago and Shanghai; John P. Powell, Shanghai newspaper publisher and Lee Solomon of San Francisco and Shanghai. The others were Fred Ellis, a broker of Shanghai, and a brother of Edward Ellis who was released today, and Reinald Rowland of Tientsin, both British. Emil Gensburger, Shanghai broker, a Frenchman, and E. D. Musso, lawyer and capitalist of Shanghai, an Italian.

The release of most of them was expected hourly although it was considered likely that the bandits might hold two or three pending fulfillment of all actions demanded by the Chinese government. One report said that the last foreigner would not be freed until the last of the Suichow band had been enrolled in the army. The favorable progress of the negotiations today, however, indicated the entire settlement of the affair would be effected in a few days.

WILL NUMBER N. D. HIGHWAYS

State Engineer Says Work Will Begin Soon

North Dakota highways will be numbered, in conformity with a system which has proved successful in Wisconsin and Minnesota, Walter G. Black, state engineer, said today. The work will be started soon and much of it completed during the summer and fall.

All trunk lines in both directions and inter-country roads will be numbered. Signs will be posted which will contain both the number of the trail and the name, if any, the sign probably to be in the shape of the state of North Dakota.

The system of numbering highways has proved very successful, permitting easy identification, and making possible easy recording of the number for the benefit of travelers.

CELEBRANTS HONORED

New England, N. D., June 2.—Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Walker, who recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, were given a place of honor in the big parade held at the Hettenger county play day celebration here. They occupied a special auto which had been trimmed for the occasion. New England people presented them with a large bouquet of yellow roses and with their congratulations and good wishes.

RUHR RAIL LINE WRECKED

Duesseldorf, June 2.—The main line railroad used by the French for the transportation of coal and coke out of the occupied Ruhr district was cut early today by the explosion of bombs. Both tracks were torn up for a considerable distance and traffic will be interrupted for some time.

A coal train was derailed by the damaged track in one other case. Contact bombs were exploded when struck by locomotives, both engines derailed.

FOREST FIRES STILL RAGING IN MINNESOTA

Fires Also Reported in Ontario and Upper Michigan

STILL ARE HOPEFUL

Subsidence of Wind, Even Though Rain Is Absent, Gives Hope

St. Paul, June 2.—Forest fires in the brush today were still menacing various sections of the United States and adjoining provinces in Canada. While rain was being vainly prayed for in the forest fires were virtual cloudbursts were causing distressing conditions in Alberta. One death was reported at Blairmore, Alberta, where Harold Joyce, aged 8, was drowned. At Calgary two bridges were being endangered by rushing water. The swelling Elbow river and many residents were preparing to leave their homes. Gas service in the city was cut off.

Little change was reported in the Crow's Nest district and the Obosk area where Sheep Creek flooded the town. Trains were tied up and hundreds of automobiles were stalled in the southern part of the province. Further east in the province of Ontario little improvement was noted in the forest fire section. Serious blazes were reported at towns and at Atikokan, just west of Port Arthur. In the United States Northern Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan settlers continued their struggles against increasing fire dangers. More than 200 men are battling to keep the flames from entering Superior National Forest in Minnesota. The forest is surrounded on three sides by fire. Most of the other fires in Minnesota were under control or being checked except Buoyek. One near Echo Lake was about five miles wide and had burned over more than 4,000 acres. The other, several miles northeast of Buoyek, was still advancing.

Scores of additional fires also were reported, mostly in partly settled regions.

WIND STAYS DOWN

Duluth, June 2.—Continuation of favorable wind conditions in the northeastern Minnesota forest and brush fire area today found forestry officials still hopeful that the favorable eastern winds would bring a drenching rain.

Since the wind subsided 48 hours ago the crews have made marked headway toward establishing fire lines and otherwise cutting off flames. Only some sections of the larger fires remained uncontrolled.

Forestry officials stressed the danger that would result from rising winds. Calvin Dahlgren of Ely, supervisor of the Superior National Forest, considered the potential fire menace to be the most serious in recent years. John McLaren, district fire chief for the National Service, fears that the Superior National would be swept from boundary to boundary within a few hours if strong winds should develop before rain quenches the fires and brings out retarded vegetation.

FIRST VICTIM OF THE HEAT

Minneapolis, June 2.—Victor Schell, 57, is the first heat victim this year in Minneapolis. Schell was found unconscious on streets yesterday afternoon and today his condition was reported as "only fair." The temperature reached 80 degrees at 5 p. m. yesterday.

LABORER DIES AFTER FIGHT

Jamestown, N. D., June 2.—Peter Pantelis, a Greek railroad laborer brought to a local hospital from Bowdin with a scalp wound, died this morning. The county attorney of Wells county telegraphed local undertakers to hold the body pending investigation. The story as reported is that two Greek laborers got in a fight, and Pantelis was struck over the head with a pinch bar.

DUIS MAKES STATE TOUR

President of N. D. Grain Growers Speaks on Wheat Pooling

Grand Forks, N. D., June 2.—"Orderly Marketing" will be the keynote of speeches which Geo. E. Duis of Grand Forks, president of the North Dakota Grain Growers association, will make on a tour of visiting North Dakota points which he began today in the interests of the wheat pooling movement.

But five stops have been definitely planned thus far. They are: Finley on June 1 at 2 p. m.; Coonerton on June 2 at 3:30 p. m.; Mayville on June 2 at 4 p. m.; Davenport on June 3; Dwight on June 4.

Although Mr. Duis expects to complete the tour by June 30, he probably will speak at about 40 places throughout the state, several of the speaking dates being in the afternoon. He will make the tour by auto.

Our vision, without moving the eyes, covers an arc of about 220 degrees.

MEN IN NATIONAL GUARD AT DEVILS LAKE TO "FEED" WELL

The 1350 men expected at the North Dakota National Guard camp at Devils Lake will feed well. The list of supplies listed by Major Harold Sorenson, disbursing officer of the guard, includes plenty of solid food and a number of delicacies.

It will cost $10,395.50 to feed the guard in the 13 and 23 days in camp and $2,846.80 to provide rations while the guardsmen are traveling to the camp. The total cost of the camp, estimated at $71,929 and paid from U. S. Army fund, includes, freight and transportation, $22,580.74; rent of horses and mules, $1,092; forage, $403.10; gas, oil, $522; fuel, miscellaneous, $823 and pay, $34,071.12.

The rations will include 12,577 pounds of beef, 2,153 pounds of bacon, 14,930 pounds of bread, 12,556 pounds of potatoes, 30 cases of fish, 3,887 pounds of onions, 15 50-pound sacks of "Dakota Maid" flour.

The old army beans will be there, the estimate calling for 1,100 pounds of white beans. There will be used 575 pounds of rice, 100 pounds of hominy, 75 cases of tomatoes, 250 pounds of evaporated apples, 730 pounds of jam, 350 pounds of prunes, and 825 pounds of corn.

A total of 2,900 pounds of sugar will be used, and 20 cases of evaporated milk will go to make up the menu. It is estimated 220 pounds of butter will be needed.

The ration allowance for the enlistment is 50 cents a day. Major Sorenson believes this will permit of a mezzanine not included in the estimate, such as ice cream on Sunday.

NORMALCY BEGONE! GET SET FOR THE SHRINERS

By HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 2.—Washington is an American city no longer.

From the dignified and sedate capital of the world's greatest democracy, it has been transformed into a gaudy daisy oriental Babel, outdoing in gaudy trappings and rioting colors the brilliance and splendor of ancient Mecca, Medina and Bagdad.

For the week of June 3 the White House ceases to be the executive mansion, residence of President Warren G. Harding.

In 1921, maybe you remember how Congress, feeling that the country would not approve large expenditures at that time for an inaugural pageant voted down the appropriations for display and ceremonial.

But whatever was withheld at that time is to be made up now, with interest. Never was the city so "lit up" for any inaugural as it is for the Shriners' annual convention.

There were such elaborate stands erected in front of the White House, never such brilliant and costly effects staged. The whole picture is costing somebody well up to $500,000.

But think of what 500,000 Shriners will spend when they get to town!

And the prestige of having Follow Shrine Noble Harding, with his red and gold tie in the reviewing stand! Thousands of multi-colored electric lights. Electric-jeweled statuettes, crescents and stars everywhere. Red, green, yellow and blue banners and bunting by the mile. Music blaring from amplifier horns on high posts every hundred feet from the Capitol to Washington Circle, two miles away. Gilded towers and minarets cornering the Garden of Allah. Turkish trousers and Arabian fez.

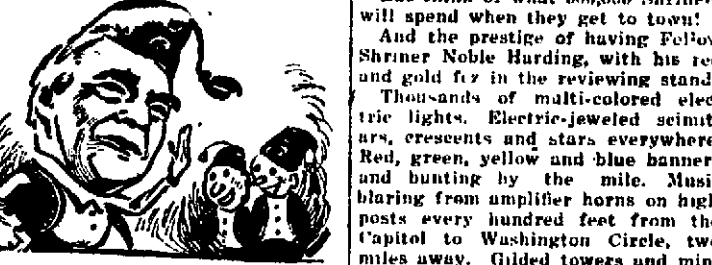

Orlando? Well that's what Washington ain't nothing else but! Speaking of fez, naturally makes one think of fizzes.

Roy Haynes, prohibition commissioner, who is NOT a Shriner, has volunteered to save visitors during Shrine week from annoyance by bootleggers. He is bringing in a bunch of his best agents to help make the capital safe for Shriners.

However, it is whispered that the best thing of the "fix-shippers" is that the action also is on the job and that a number of uses are being established for drought-parched desert pilgrims.

After Shriners' Week Washington will return to normalcy.

Praise be to Allah!

ren Gamaliel Harding. It becomes, instead, the royal seraglio palace of Noble Gamaliel Harding, high potentate of Aladdin Temple, Ancient Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, Pennsylvania avenue, historic thoroughfare down which our presidents ride to their inaugurations is Pennsylvania avenue no longer. It has become "The Road to Mecca," along which will trudge some hundreds of thousands of Shrine pilgrims.

Lafayette Park, fronting the White House, becomes the "Garden of Allah," outdoor Maxwell Park's wildest imagination in its medley of colors and with its quiet atmosphere shredded by the weird synopses of pulsing desert music.

The whole city and all its normal life has been turned topsy-turvy to make a gala week for the national Shriners' convention, which is expected to bring at least 500,000 visitors to town.

Maybe there is something more than mere Shriner loyalty in this decking out Washington as the modern Mecca this year. Possibly they're trying to make up to Follow Noble Warren the pomp and pageantry that was withheld at the time he was inaugurated—president-back.

SOO DECIDES AGAINST ANY TRAIN CHANGE

Desire to Avoid Injury to Bismarck Business Men Responsible, It Is Stated

The Soo line today withdrew its application to establish mixed train service on the south line out of Bismarck during the summer months, Superintendent S. W. Derrick announced today.

Because of the feeling among business men of Bismarck that they would suffer considerably from the proposed change, and the Soo was actuated by a spirit of friendliness and desire to aid Bismarck business men and Bismarck generally in its business and development.

The Soo will continue its service as at present, although the branch is operated at a loss during summer months, Supt. Derrick said.

Supt. Derrick, returning from a trip on the North Soo, expressed the opinion that crops are, virtually as favorable as they could be, in spite of this time last year, in spite of the late spring. With the exception of some loss on winter rye due to winter kill the crops are in good shape, he said.

"NORMALCY" IN MAY WEATHER

Averages Do Not Vary Far From Past Years

"Normalcy" marked the weather for the month of May, according to the weather bureau's meteorological summary.

The percentage of sunshine was 63, which was just five percent above normal.

The average daily excess of temperature was 1.7 degrees above normal while this was evened up by making the record since January 1—20 less than normal.

A little more marked difference from "normal" is shown in precipitation. It was 1.49 inches less than normal for the month and there is an accumulated deficiency in rainfall of 2.41 inches since January 1.

Light frost was reported on 12 days, heavily on 15 and killing on eight days.

Loading Material

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT ACT KILLED

New York Governor's Stock Boosted for Presidency as "Wet" Candidate

GIVES HIS VIEWS

Calls for Modification of Volstead Act, But Will Enforce It In State

New York, June 2.—(Genaro) Celongnoni, arrested last night charged with possessing 110 gallons of wine, was discharged today by Magistrate Goodman on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction since the arrest was made after governor Smith signed the repeal of the Mullan-tige state prohibition act.

Albany, N. Y., June 2.—The Mullan-Gage state prohibition enforcement act is dead.

Governor Smith killed it last night with a few strokes of the pen necessary to affix his signature to the legislature's repeal bill adopted four weeks ago.

In announcing his action the governor called for "common sense" modification of the Volstead act by Congress which would base the alcoholic content of permissible beverages at a point that would make possible the sale of beer and light wines in states that want them.

This action is counted on by his supporters to make him a formidable bidder for the Democratic presidential nomination on a "liberal platform" in 1924.

The Mullan-Gage act passed out with few formalities. Reporters, who swarmed the corridors about the executive chamber all day were admitted at 6 o'clock, just in time to see the governor lifting the blotter from his signature. He smiled and said: "Boys I have just approved the bill."

WETS ENCOURAGED

Madison, Wis., June 2.—Encouraged by the repeal of the Mullan-Gage enforcement law in New York the wets in the Wisconsin legislature announced today that they plan next week to move to take off the table the Tucker bill, providing for repeal of the Sevenson prohibition enforcement law for Wisconsin. This measure, which was defeated earlier in the session, now is to be revived by the anti-prohibition forces who hold the upper hand in the assembly according to Assemblyman Herman Tucker of Milwaukee, author of the repeal.

VOLSTEAD WON'T COMMENT

Granite Falls, Minn., June 2.—A. J. Volstead, former representative in Congress, today declined to comment on the action of Governor Smith in New York which repeals the Mullan-Gage prohibition enforcement law.

"If I had been governor I would have vetoed it," Mr. Volstead said, but refused to say anything further.

SMITH SIGNS DRY REPEAL BILL

WATER MATTER GOES OVER TO MONDAY NIGHT

City Commission Rejects Pump Bids and Holds Engine Matter in Abeyance

EXTENSIONS GRANTED
All Contractors on Which Contracts Were Held Open Agree Extension to June 12

After wrestling with various phases of the water works contracts this week, the city commission adjourned last evening after another four-hour session to meet Monday night at 8 o'clock.

The commission and citizens committee devoted the time to consideration of pump bids and the question of installing oil engines to supply electric power to pump the water.

It was decided to reject all pump bids and advertise for new bids on June 25. The oil engine matter was left in abeyance.

Replies were received from all contractors who were asked to hold their bids open until June 12, stating that they would do so, Mayor Lenhart said.

The commission drew a contract with City Engineer Atkinson which is the same as the one under which he has been serving as city engineer, but was drawn anew because the commission has been reorganized in the meantime.

Mayor Lenhart said the commission felt that Mr. Atkinson's stand and engineering advice had been fully vindicated. The fact that low bids on the new plant were about $4,000 under the estimate of the city engineer on a $700,000 job was evidence that there had been no guess-work on the part of the engineering force but that the matter had been gone into thoroughly.

London, June 2.—The Earl of Carnarvon's private collection of antiquities will be presented by his widow to the nation for the British museum, says the Daily Mail.

No Work Available
"Other thousands are sacrificing their scanty morsels to horde that storm their doors pleading for something to eat. They labor on industriously, without thought of themselves, until they're no longer able to remain on their feet."

"So, too, with the little children in the orphanages. And with men and women who are roaming the streets crying for work. But there is no work to give them."

"In the midst of all this poverty, disease and distress the materialistic philosophy of Bolshevism is certain to appeal. Bolshevism, however, is easier to combat than the plague. That we cannot stand off without aid from the outside."

Only the generosity of other nations can save us. Your people have been very kind to us. And I know they shall be equally as kind throughout the dark days we have yet to go through.

"We appeal for no alms—merely a 'lift' as you Americans put it. Some day we hope to pay our debt to the last mark."

"I have come to the United States to express my country's appreciation for what you have done toward leading us out of the chaos. My visit is the realization of my life's most cherished ambition."

Pleased With America
"Even during the war," he continues, "when I was a chaplain at the front, I was impressed with the high regard our troops had for your soldiers. We found our most courageous foe our kindest friend."

"With great expectation I set foot upon your soil. Nor have I been disappointed. I feel as though I were in another world."

The cardinal is one of the most distinguished theologians of modern times. From his pen have come many of the better known works on exegesis and homiletic nature.

Despite his profound scholarship, he is remarkably democratic. Cardinal Faulhaber cleverly circumvented an attempt to kiss his ring. He preferred the American way of shaking hands.

His face was wreathed in a pleasant smile. But a look of sadness displaced it as he took of the misery of his people.

His eminence got along splendidly without the assistance of an interpreter. He speaks excellent English.

LUTHER LEAGUE CONVENTION IN MANDAN OPENS

Splendid Program Given in Opening Exercises—Many Delegates There

The eighth annual convention and song festival of the Mandan Circuit Young Peoples Luther League opened at the Lutheran church at Mandan last night with a splendid program rendered by the local League. After the program an informal reception and social time was enjoyed in the church parlors, followed by light refreshments.

A considerable number of delegates, singers and visitors had already arrived from surrounding places so that the church was well filled. Owing to the fact that the President of the organization, Rev. W. T. Gistad of Beach, was detained from attending, the convention was held this morning. The forenoon session today will principally be devoted to business. A splendid program is arranged for the convention to terminate in a grand concert to be given at the Palace Theater on Sunday evening by a chorus of about 100 voices and soloists from various places.

Governor Nestes will address the convention tomorrow. The feature of the convention will be the contest of choruses of 100 voices at the Palace theatre tomorrow. The choruses will be under the direction of Prof. Herman W. Munson of the McPhail school of music.

There are about 70 delegates from young peoples Luther League conventions from Steele on the east to Ollie, Montana, on the west, not including Bismarck and Mandan delegates.

RUHR RAIL LINE WRECKED

Duesseldorf, June 2.—The main line railroad used by the French for the transportation of coal and coke out of the occupied Ruhr district was cut early today by the explosion of bombs. Both tracks were torn up for a considerable distance and traffic will be interrupted for sometime.

A coal train was derailed by the damaged track in one other case tonight. Bombs were exploded when struck by locomotives, both engines derailed.

INCENDIARY FIRES FEWER

A noticeable decrease in the number of incendiary, or suspected fires in North Dakota is noticeable, Henry L. Reade, state fire marshal, said today. Investigations throughout the state have shown him he said that the moral hazard is much better than in the last three years.

GRIM REMINDER OF WARFARE OF OLDEN DAYS RECEIVED HERE

A grim reminder of warfare between U. S. soldiers and the Indians in North Dakota more than a half century ago has been placed in the State Historical society. It is a metal canteen, picked up by Mrs. Oscar Anderson of Sterling on the site of the Stony Lake battlefield, north of Driscoll, Burleigh county. It was here that General Sibley and his command on July 27, 1863, met and defeated a band of Indians. The battlefield and other sites notable in the expedition of General Sibley to the Missouri river during the Civil War when the Indians were stirred to resist the advance of the whites, were assisted here by Dr. Gilmore and Dana Wright. They sought to locate the grave of

FOUR MORE OF CAPTIVES IN CHINA FREED

Speedy Release of Other Captives Is Being Predicted by Relief Agents

AMERICANS INCLUDED
Last Captive to be Held Until Last Bandit Is Enrolled in Army

Tientsin, China, June 2.—Four more of the foreign captives held by the Sochow train bandits, one American, two British subjects and one Mexican citizen, have been released unconditionally and arrived at the relief camp at Tsao Chwang according to a telegram from there. Those released today were Jerome Henly, American, New York; employed by the Fearon-Daniel company at Shanghai; Edward Elias and Theodore Saphire, both British subjects and brokers of Shanghai, and Manuel Vares, manufacturer, of Guadalajara, Mexico.

The dispatch from Tsao Chwang said prospects were for the speedy release of the eight other foreigners imprisoned on Paotzuku mountain.

The international military commission reached Tsao Chwang today and sent an airplane to reconnoiter the bandits' position.

The other foreigners still held at last reports included four Americans: Roland Finger, ordinance department, U. S. A.; Leon Friedman of Chicago and Shanghai; John P. Powell, Shanghai newspaper publisher; and Lee Solomon of San Francisco and Shanghai. The others were Fred Elias, a broker of Shanghai and a brother of Edward Elias who was released today; and Reinald Rowland of Tientsin, both British. Emile Gensburger, Shanghai broker, a Frenchman, and E. D. Musso, lawyer and capitalist of Shanghai, an Italian.

WILL NUMBER N. D. HIGHWAYS

State Engineer Says Work Will Begin Soon

North Dakota highways will be numbered, in conformity with a system which has proved successful in Wisconsin and Minnesota. Walter G. Black, state engineer, said today. The work will be started soon and much of it completed during the summer and fall.

All trunk lines in both directions and inter-county roads will be numbered. Signs will be posted which will contain both the number of the road and the name, if any, the sign probably to be in the shape of the state of North Dakota.

The system of numbering highways has proved very successful, permitting easy identification, and making possible easy recording of the number for the benefit of travelers.

FOREST FIRES STILL RAGING IN MINNESOTA

Fires Also Reported in Ontario and Upper Michigan

STILL ARE HOPEFUL
Subsidence of Wind, Even Though Rain Is Absent, Gives Hope

St. Paul, June 2.—Forest fires in the brush today were still menacing various sections of the United States and adjoining provinces in Canada. While rain was being vainly prayed for in the forest fires area virtual cloudbursts were causing distressing conditions in Alberta. One death was reported at Blairmore, Alberta, where Harold Joyce, aged 8, was drowned. At Calgary two bridges were being endangered by rushing waters in the swelling Elbow river and many residents were preparing to leave their homes. Gas service in the city was cut off.

Little change was reported in the Crow's Nest district and the Oboskak area where Sheep Creek flooded the town. Trains were tied up and hundreds of automobiles were stalled in the southern part of the province. Further east in the province of Ontario little improvement was noted in the forest fire section. Serious blazes were reported at towns and at Atikokan, just west of Port Arthur. In the United States Northern Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan settlers continued their struggles against increasing fire dangers. More than 200 men are battling to keep the flames from entering Superior National Forest in Minnesota. The forest is surrounded on four sides by fire. Most of the other fires in Minnesota were under control or being checked except Bueyck. One near Echo Lake was about five miles wide and had burned over more than 4,000 acres. The other, several miles northeast of Bueyck, was still advancing.

Scores of additional fires also were noted, mostly in partly settled regions.

WIND STAYS DOWN.

Duluth, June 2.—Continuation of favorable wind conditions in the northeastern Minnesota forest and brush fire area today found forestry officials still hopeful that the favorable eastern winds would bring a drenching rain.

Since the wind subsided 48 hours ago, however, have made marked headway toward establishing fire lines and otherwise cutting off flames. Only some sections of the larger fires remained uncontrolled.

Forestry officials stressed the danger that would result from rising winds. Calvin Dahlgren of Ely, supervisor of the Superior National Forest, considers the potential fire menace to be the most serious in recent years. John McLaren, district fire chief for the National Service, fears that the Superior National would be swept from boundary to boundary within a few hours if strong winds should develop before rain quenches the fires and brings out retarded vegetation.

FIRST VICTIM OF THE HEAT

Minneapolis, June 2.—Victor Schell, 57, is the first heat victim this year in Minneapolis. Schell was found unconscious on streets yesterday afternoon and today his condition was reported as "only fair." The temperature reached 90 degrees at 5 p. m. yesterday.

NORMALCY BEGONE! GET SET FOR THE SHRINERS

By HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 2.—Washington is an American city no longer. From the dignified and sedate capital of the world's greatest democracy, it has been transformed into a giddy dizzy oriental Babel, outdoing in gaudy trappings and rioting colors the brilliance and splendor of ancient Mecca, Medina and Bagdad.

For the week of June 3 the White House ceases to be the executive mansion, residence of President Washington.

ren Gamaliel Harding. It becomes, instead, the royal seraglio palace of Noble Gamaliel Harding, high potentate of the Mystic Shrine.

Order Nobles, a historic, thoroughfare down which our presidents ride to their inaugurations, Pennsylvania avenue no longer, it has become "The Road to Mecca," along which will trudge some hundreds of thousands of Shrine pilgrims.

Lafayette Park, fronting the White House, becomes the "Garden of Allah," outdoing Maxfield Parrish's wildest imagination in its medley of colors and with its quiet atmosphere shrouded by the weird synopses of pulsing desert music.

The whole city and all its normal life has been turned topsy-turvy to make a gala week for the national Shriners' convention, which is expected to bring at least 500,000 visitors to town.

Maybe there is something more than mere Shiner loyalty in this decking out Washington at the modern Mecca this year. Possibly they're trying to make up to Fellow Noble Warren the pomp and pageantry that was withheld at the time he was inaugurated president back in 1921.

LABORER DIES AFTER FIGHT

Jamestown, N. D., June 2.—Peter Pantelis, a Greek railroad laborer brought to a local hospital from Bowdin with a scalp wound, died this morning. The county attorney of Wells county telegraphed local undertaking parlors to hold the body pending investigation. The story as reported is that two Greek laborers got in a fight, and Pantelis was struck over the head with a pinch bar.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 2.—"Orderly Marketing," will be the keynote of speeches which Geo. E. Duis of Grand Forks, president of the North Dakota Grain Growers association, will make on a tour of various North Dakota points which he began today in the interests of the wheat pooling movement.

Although Mr. Duis expects to complete the tour by June 30, he probably will speak at about 15 places throughout the state, several of the speaking dates being in the future. He will make the tour by auto.

Our vision, without moving the eyes, covers an arc of about 220 degrees.

Army fund, includes, freight and transportation, $22,520.74; rent of horses and mules, $1,092; forage, $408.10; gas, oil, $322; fuel, miscellaneous, $823 and pay, $43,071.12.

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT ACT KILLED

New York Governor's Stock Boosted for Presidency as "Wet" Candidate

GIVES HIS VIEWS
Calls for Modification of Volstead Act, But Will Enforce It In State

New York, June 2.—Genaro Celongnon, arrested last night charged with possessing 110 gallons of wine, was discharged today by Magistrate Goodman on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction since the arrest was made after Governor Smith signed the repeal of the Mullan-Gage state prohibition act.

Albany, N. Y., June 2.—The Mullan-Gage state prohibition enforcement act is dead.

Governor Smith killed it last night with a few strokes of the pen necessary to affix his signature to the legislature's repeal bill adopted four weeks ago.

In announcing his action the governor called for "common sense" modification of the Volstead act by Congress which would base the alcoholic content of permissible beverages at a point that would make possible the sale of beer and light wines in states that want them.

This action is counted on by his supporters to make him a formidable bidder for the Democratic presidential nomination on a "liberal platform" in 1924.

The Mullan-Gage act passed out with few formalities. Reporters, who swarmed the corridors about the executive chamber all day were admitted at 6 o'clock, just in time to see the governor lifting the blotter from his wet signature. He smiled and said: "Boys I have just approved the bill."

Canvases Click.
Motion picture camera men ground out a few hours of film and it was all over. In announcing his decision Governor Smith made public a memorandum of nearly 4,000 words explaining exhaustively why he had approved of the repeal.

He declared the 18th amendment was just as effective in New York as it ever had been and he would require all state officers to aid the federal government in strict enforcement of the Volstead act.

WETS ENCOURAGED.
Madison, Wis., June 2.—Encouraged by the repeal of the Mullan-Gage enforcement law in New York the wets in the Wisconsin legislature announced today that they plan next week to move to take off the table the Tucker bill, providing for repeal of the Severson prohibition enforcement law by referendum. This measure is tabled by defeat earlier in the session now is to be revived by the anti-prohibition forces who hold the upper hand in the assembly according to Assemblyman Herman Tucker of Milwaukee, author of the repeal.

VOLSTEAD WON'T COMMENT.
Granite Falls, Minn., June 2.—A. J. Volstead, former representative in Congress, today declined to comment on the action of Governor Smith in New York which repeals the Mullan-Gage prohibition enforcement law.

"If I had been governor I would have vetoed it," Mr. Volstead said, but refused to say anything further.

"NORMALCY" IN MAY WEATHER

Averages Do Not Vary Far From Past Years

"Normalcy" marked the weather for the month of May, according to the weather bureau's meteorological summary.

The percentage of sunshine was 63, which was just five percent above normal.

The average daily excess of temperature was 1.7 degrees above normal while this was evened up by making the record since January 1—20 less than normal.

A little more marked difference from normal is shown in precipitation. It was 1.49 inches less than normal for the month and there is an accumulated deficiency in rainfall of 2.41 inches since January 1.

Light frost was reported on 12 days, heavy on 15 and killing on eight days.

Loading Material
Clothing and other apparel and material to be used as replacements at the National Guard camp at Devils Lake was being taken from the Adjutant-General's storerooms today and loaded on a Soo line train to be taken to the military reservation.

The ration allowance for the enlistment is 50 cents a day. Major Sorenson believes this will permit of so meagre as not included in the estimate, such as ice cream on Sundays, 1,630 pounds of bread, 12,556

PROTEST MADE OVER DIGGING UP SKELETONS

People of Gravesend, England, Resent America's Effort in Cemetery

Gravesend, England, June 1.—Resentment at the action of Edward P. Gaston, American archaeologist and his associates in digging up the remains of scores of bodies in St. George's churchyard in their search for the bones of Pocahontas, continued unabated among the townspeople today.

Although Mr. Gaston had been at much pains to explain that no disrespect was intended the inhabitants of Gravesend, England, held meetings and protested. Some of them threatened to petition for removal of Cannon Edge, the blind pastor of the church, who officiated yesterday at the reinterment of the bones. They were particularly aggrieved, they said, to see the excavators parading of cake and tea on flat stones while workmen with cigarettes in their mouth hauled up buckets of bones from the vaults and photographers snapped the gruesome scene.

PLANT LICE ARE FOUND ON CURRANT BUSH

"Currant foliage in this part of the country is very commonly curled and discolored with reddish patches, caused by the presence of tiny greenish plant-lice on the lower surface of the leaves," declares Dr. E. L. Webster, entomologist at the North Dakota Agricultural college. "These small insects are provided with sucking mouthparts through which they obtain their food from the leaves."

"In order to control the insects some contact poison is necessary, but because of the excessive curling of the foliage, it is usually difficult to actually reach the insects. An early start is absolutely necessary with any treatment directed against these plant lice. Soap solutions or tobacco extracts are recommended for the control of these plant-lice. A simple soap solution, made by boiling one pound of soap in water and diluting to make 8 gallons of solution, is effective when it comes in contact with the insects. Any good quality of white laundry soap is generally satisfactory."

"Tobacco extracts, such as nicotine sulphate or black leaf-40 may also be used for these insects. Such materials do not easily injure foliage and may be used in very dilute concentrations. Usually one part of black leaf-40 may be diluted with 700 or 800 parts of water. "It is absolutely necessary to force materials such as these into the curled leaves in order to strike the plant-lice and an upturned nozzle should be used for this purpose."

Reports Show Cream Grading Necessary, Claim

Fargo, June 1.—Comments of the United States Department of Agriculture market report for May 24 show in a definite way why cream should be bought according to grade. The statement of J. E. Dier of the dairy department at the North Dakota Agricultural college. The report was as follows: "There was a good demand for 99 to 91 score butter, and this class of goods was closely cleaned up, but otherwise the market was quiet. The supply of top scores was not heavy. Undergrades in liberal supply and hard to sell. Undergrade cases also plentiful and hard to move. "There was a 2-2 cent spread between 87 score butter, and 90 score butter, but the usual outstanding difference was that there was a demand for good butter at the prices quoted while the low score butter was a drug on the market," Mr. Dier declared.

Reports indicate that the system of grading inaugurated by Dairy Commissioner Reynolds the first of the month is progressing nicely. There are a few communities and a few individuals that are not satisfied, and there will probably be a number of difficulties to be overcome, but results to date are encouraging.

"The buying of cream according to grade is inevitable, as it is just as unjust to the producer to pay the same price for cream regardless of the quality as it would be to buy all cream by the gallon, regardless of the fat test. "Everyone who is interested in the development of the dairy business in North Dakota should do all that they can to make cream grading a success."

BUNCO RING IS BROKEN

Members Sentenced to Prison Terms in Denver Court

Denver, Colo., June 1.—Members of Denver's so-called "million dollar bunco ring" were given penitentiary sentences today. After overruling their motions for a new trial Judge Dunkley in the west side court sentenced Louis Blonger, called the "brains of the band" and 15 of his associates to serve 7 to 10 years each in the Colorado state prison. Three other members of the convicted group of swindlers got sentences of from 5 to 10 years each. Blonger is 69 years old. The 20 defendants were convicted on three counts charging conspiracy, conspiracy to commit confidence gaming and conspiracy to commit grand larceny. They were found guilty on Mar. 28 last after the jury been out more than 108 hours. Victims of the band came to Denver from different parts of the country and testified to having lost from $5,000 to $54,787 each.

QUESTION OF STATE NORMAL YET UNSETTLED

No Method of Raising Funds For Maintenance Determined Upon

Bottineau, N. D., June 2.—The problem of continuing the Bottineau state normal school, for whose maintenance a forestry school Governor Nestos recently vetoed an appropriation, is today no nearer solution, following a conference here last night between Bottineau business men and the state board of administration. The meeting was held at the instance of the Bottineau Commercial club, which has actively interested itself in an effort to raise sufficient money and devise plans to keep the institution open.

John Lee Coulter, president of the state agricultural college, in Bottineau, to deliver the commencement address at the forestry school, attended the conference but offered no solution.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

"The Sin Flood," the new Goldwyn production shown at the Capitol theatre next week, has been selected by the critics of Photoplay Magazine as one of the six best pictures of the month. This is significant, as the Photoplay Magazine saw fit to include three Goldwyn productions among the six best that were chosen for special editorial comment. Here is the critic's opinion of "The Sin Flood":

"It is a photoplay you will wish to see, and seeing, you will remember. One hesitates to say the obvious thing in connection with it. It is drama, with a beauty and dignity that does not stoop to the melodramatic at any time. "Those who believe that massive sets and thousands of 'extras' are necessary to the photoplay of the day, that 'Action' must be the watch word, that a vast expenditure of money or the 'Made in Europe' trademark makes for success in this field, will do well to note this intense masterful drama unfolded for the most part in one large room with but seven or eight members to the cast. "Frank Lloyd, with 'Madame X' and many others successes to his credit, directed this filmization of Honoring Berger's 'Snydastoden.' His skilled touch is not unlike that of the late George Loane Tucker. "James Kirkwood does the greatest work of his career, but the other players have parts of almost equal importance, and play them well. "Here is a Photoplay for the entire family, an exquisite bloom in a desert of mediocrity. "The opinion of the Photoplay Magazine's critic is borne out by every one who has seen the picture before its release. "The Sin Flood" is indeed, a picture that must be seen. It is more than entertainment. It is human nature dramatized.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower" Praised in New York

Tremendous in every way, as massive as it is exquisitely beautiful, "When Knighthood Was in Flower," starring Marion Davies in one of the most notable roles ever portrayed by any screen star, is in every sense of the word an epochal picture production. It comes to the Bismarck theatre next Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday. Created by Cosmopolitan Production for Paramount at an expense of more than one million dollars, and interpreted by a corps of screen artists of a magnitude seldom if ever seen in any American motion picture production, it is at once a delight to the eye and the mind.

Displayed for months at enhanced prices at the Criterion Theatre in New York, where it was first presented on September 14, 1922, it was hailed as the supreme achievement of the American screen.

The remarkable beauty of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," its dramatic story, historical accuracy, its superb photography and rich costumes, and all the features of superiority with which it abounds, stamp it as the most magnificent picture ever produced on the screen.

Directed by Robert G. Vignola, the settings by Joseph Urban, the adaptation by Luther Reed of Charles Major's celebrated novel, this production marks a distinct advance in motion picture art. The reception accorded to "When Knighthood Was in Flower," at the Criterion Theatre, New York, on its premier presentation at that theatre on September 14, 1922, was most flattering. The reviewers of the newspapers indorsed it most cordially. Excerpts from the reviews are given herewith. PLANS DRAWN FOR HANDLING HARVEST WORK

U. S. Employment Service Tells of Methods of Distribution of Workers

FROM SOUTH TO NORTH

The plan of the U. S. Employment Service for handling of farm labor throughout the west is outlined by George E. Tucker, field director of the service, in the following statement from the central labor office, Kansas City, Mo.

The handling of harvest labor for the Big Wheat Belt will be directed from the central office of the Farm Labor Bureau of the U. S. Employment Service, 2014 Main St., Kansas City, Mo. Recruiting offices are now maintained at the permanent branch office of the Farm Labor Bureau at St. Paul, Minn., and at temporary offices at Waco and Amarillo, Tex.; Little Rock, Fort Smith and Texarkana, Ark., and at St. Louis, Mo. Other recruiting offices will be opened at Denver, Colo., Omaha, Neb., and at other advantageous points. Recruiting and distributing offices are also maintained at Kansas City, Mo., at the Union Station and at 317 East 8th Street, and by the Kansas Free Employment Bureau at 349 Minnesota Avenue, Kansas City, Kansas.

"Authentic information relative to harvest may be obtained at any of these offices or at any State and Federal Employment Office in your own state. In recruiting and distributing harvest labor the Federal Farm Labor Bureau and the State Labor and Employment Services of the wheat states are in touch with this Bureau at all times and are co-operating with it as are also the County Farm Agents in the states where labor is required.

Texas Harvest Plans—Present conditions point to a wheat harvest in Texas of about 1,500,000 acres. It is estimated that this state will require 6,000 men from outside the wheat sections to care for its crop. Cutting will begin in the Fort Worth district about June 1st but the demand for laborers from the outside will come in the Western and Panhandle counties where harvest starts in June 20th to 25th. Wages generally will be $3 a day with board and lodging. For further direction to jobs within the state apply to the Federal Offices at Fort Worth, Waco and Amarillo, Texas.

OKLAHOMA—This state will probably harvest about 3,000,000 acres of winter wheat and will require 7,500 additional laborers. Harvesting will start in the Southern wheat counties about June 1st to 5th, but outside help probably will not be required before June 10th to 12th when cutting starts in the Central Counties. The majority of men will be needed in the Central and Northwestern Counties, where cutting usually starts about June 20th to 25th. Wages will range from $3 to $4 a day for shockers and $5 to $6 for stackers. The principal distributing points for harvest hands in Oklahoma will be at the State Labor Offices at Enid, Cashion, Woodward and Alva.

KANSAS: Indications are that Kansas will harvest approximately 1,000,000 acres of winter wheat, slightly less than last year but in the big wheat area of Central Kansas, where the major portion of the harvest hands are needed, the acreage and condition of the wheat is above that of a year ago. Kansas will need fully 30,000 men outside the state to handle her harvest. The big demand for men will come from the Central Third of the state. Harvest will start in the south central Kansas counties about June 10th to 20th. The principal distributing office for this section will be at Wichita, with the main distributing office of the state at Hutchinson. Other offices will be maintained by the State and Federal Services at Kansas City, Kansas, Topeka, Kiowa, Parsons, Salina, Colby and at other points if required to bring about equitable distribution. Best information is that wages will be $4.00 a day with board and lodging.

OTHER STATES: Information relative to Nebraska, the Dakotas and other states in the Big Wheat Belt will be covered in a subsequent bulletin.

Things To Remember—Kansas City is fully 200 miles from the Big Wheat Belt and harvest hands should, insofar as possible, go directly to the points where men are needed.

Cooks, engineers, and separator men should have advance information as to jobs or go prepared to do regular harvest work until their special work is found.

The demand for Colored Labor is not large and colored men should not go to the harvest fields without assurance of work.

Railroads are not granting special rates to harvest hands and transportation is seldom advanced by farmers. Harvest hands must pay their own way to the fields.

Development In Rubber Industry Is Astonishing

A comparison of tire service standards today with those of ten or fifteen years ago reveals the fact that the development in the rubber industry has been most astonishing.

The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company points out that the developments in the rubber industry have been more revolutionary from an engineering standpoint and more beneficial to the world than those of any other industry in the same length of time.

The chemist has played one of the most important parts in this business. On him rests the responsibility of having brought tires out of the Father of Physical Culture Is Demonstrating That Captains Of Industry Eat Too Much

BERNARD MACFADDEN

New York, June 2.—Never before in the history of big business has the millionaire president of a big corporation gone without food to prove that captains of industry not only eat too much, but can actually increase their efficiency by fasting for a month at a time.

The idea of fasting in itself is not sufficiently novel to attract public attention. It has always heretofore been attempted by those who had the time and inclination. Never before has a busy executive, whose every moment is crowded with the multifarious details of directing hundreds of employees and editing and publishing six periodicals of national circulation, attempted to go without any food just to prove that abstinence from good foods clears the brain and increases capacity for work.

That the old theory that one cannot fast without stopping work and all forms of strenuous exercise is untenable.

Bernard Macfadden, millionaire, President of Macfadden Publications, Inc., which occupies from Sixty-fourth to Sixty-fifth street on Broadway whose God-driven pen has made millions think and who is known not only in this country but abroad as "the Father of Physical Culture," started on this extraordinary adventure in the control of appetite on May 19th. He said yesterday that he had been training for this test for nearly a year. Said training consisted in going on a milk diet and frequently abstaining from food for weeks at a time and then cutting out even milk for several days.

Arthur Leche, Mr. Macfadden's representative, said yesterday:

"3,500 and 4,000 mile class into a service range and four times larger."

In the Goodrich factories at Akron there is one of the largest and most completely chemical laboratories in the country. In this laboratory a large staff of chemists, physicists and experimental engineers are constantly studying new materials and their action in connection with rubber compounds. There is a huge testing laboratory also, where new mixtures are vulcanized and put through tests to determine wear, strength and

"Mr. Macfadden is fifty-four years old and is considered even today, a wonderful physical specimen. He is an athlete and for over a quarter of a century has enjoyed the best of health. Some time ago he offered to allow doctors to introduce into his system the bacilli of any virulent disease they should select. He did not fear diphtheria, typhus, or even yellow fever. He offered to make a substantial monetary contribution to any charity which they might name if the germ took effect. Mr. Macfadden's belief was that a well body would reject any disease germs and that as he was physically sound he had nothing to fear.

"His offer was not taken up by the medical profession, although no question was raised as to Mr. Macfadden's sincerity.

"Mr. Macfadden's idea is to demonstrate that Captains of Industry eat too much. That big business would be more ably conducted if the men at the head abstained from food for a month every year. He is not out to break any fasting record. He believes that total abstinence from food occasionally is good for the man in the street as well as the rich man, but he especially wishes to demonstrate in this test that the popular belief, namely that one cannot work and fast simultaneously is a fallacy.

"Mr. Macfadden's fast is attracting national attention for this reason. The New York newspapers have published long accounts of the experience. Mr. Macfadden recently received over four hundred telegrams of congratulations on his wonderful success as a publisher and already wires are coming in wishing him success in his present experiment."

deterioration. These tests provide conditions of actual service.

A section of the rubber chemist's laboratory contains miniature machines for mixing compounds, milling and vulcanizing. These machines, though in some cases resemble toy models, are the same in principle as the mammoth machines used in the factory—and they do practically the same work except on a smaller scale.

In this section the chemist obtains the fundamental information that will enable him to know his experiment will work on a big scale.

DECISIONS OF RAIL BOARD

Conference on Motor Vehicle Transportation Announced

Decisions of the state railroad commission are announced today in the weekly bulletin following a Complaint of the Oliver-Mercer Telephone Co., vs. the Mercer County Telephone Co., for decreased switching rates was withdrawn at hearing held at Center, N. D., on April 18th and the case is closed.

The petition of the Jamestown Gas Co., for increased rates was approved for a 10 percent temporary increase—subject to their installing an approved calorimeter and to a final determination of rates later.

Oliver-Mercer Telephone Co., and Spring Brook Telephone Co., and Hannover Mutual Telephone Co., Center, N. D.

(1) In its order, the Commission allowed the Spring Brook Co., to install a farm switch at the center of their line and fixed a rate of $6 per year east, and $2.00 per year west of said switch.

(2) It allowed the Fairview Farmers Telephone Co., to disconnect its line from the Center Exchange.

(3) That the rates previously fixed for the Hannover Mutual Telephone Co., ($3.00) be the legal rate.

It was ordered that the Great Northern Railway Company operate mixed train service on the Northgate Branch on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week.

The N. P. Ry., the C. M. & St. P. Ry., the Great Northern Ry., and the Midland Continental Ry., Companies are ordered to publish and maintain effective not later than July 1, 1923 joint rates on lignite coal, not exceeding the mileage scale of joint rates maintained in N. P. Ry., N. D. R. C. No. 165.

The Star Telephone Co., of Piskel, N. D., was allowed to discontinue operation of Piskel exchange on July 1, 1923.

To Hold Hearing—Commissioner Harding is sending out notices to those interested in motor vehicle transportation, calling attention to a conference to be held at the office of the Railroad Commission, June 12, 1923, at 1:30 P. M.

Great interest is shown as evidenced by letters received from insurance companies, railroad men, attorneys and motor vehicle owners.

The following subjects will be discussed:

1. Motor Vehicle Transportation Act, House Bill 222.

2. Proposed Rules and Regulations.

3. Liability and property damage insurance and surety bond.

4. Question-box.

Discussions will follow each topic. The Attorney General's office will be represented by George I. Reimstad, Assistant Attorney General.

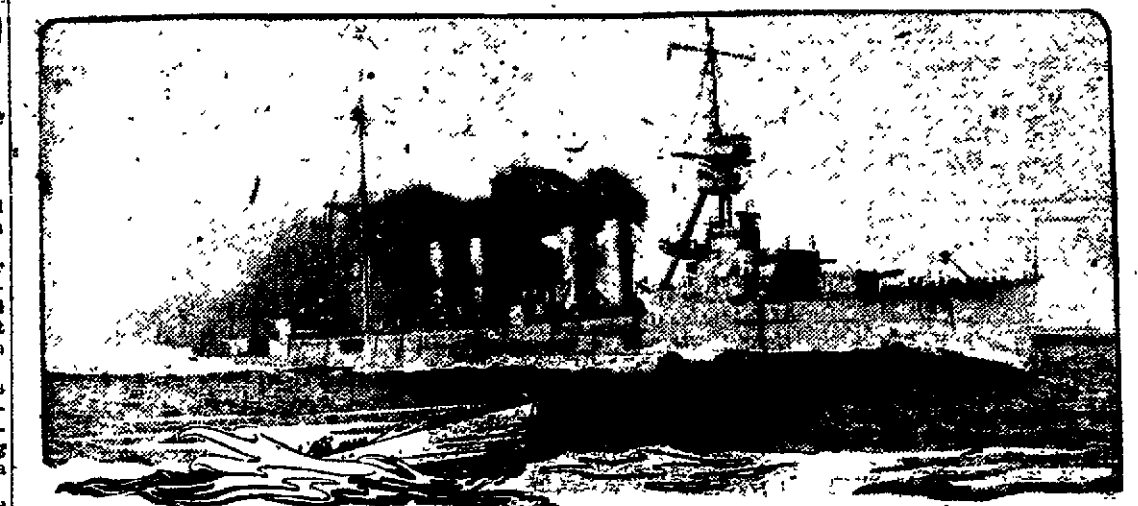

Grand Forks, N. D., June 2.—Federal funds for maintaining a state employment office in Grand Forks continuously, are not now available, according to Joseph Kitchen, state secretary of agriculture and labor, but may be made available later in the summer.

Accordingly, the office here, which has been operated on state funds, was closed, to reopen on July 1, it is announced.

Hans Anderson, manager of the local office, said that Mr. Kitchen is endeavoring to obtain federal funds for maintenance of the local office and if successful, the office will remain open permanently after July 1; otherwise it will close again about Oct. 1, after the demand for harvesting and threshing hands is over.

Considerably more than 300 men and women have been placed through the efforts of the local office since it was opened in April, Mr. Anderson said. Practically all of these were

SPEED! NEW CRUISER FASTEST SHIP AFLOAT CAN CROSS ATLANTIC IN FOUR DAYS

NEW U. S. BATTLE CRUISER RICHMOND, MAKING RECORD RUN OFF MAINE COAST.

Philadelphia, June 2.—The fastest ship afloat isn't the speedy Mauretania, nor one of those trim little navy destroyers. It's the Richmond, a 7,000-ton steel fighting machine that is as big as many transatlantic liners.

The United States Navy has just put this new light cruiser through her paces off the Maine coast. The Richmond shattered all existing navy records for ships above the destroyer class. The high speed was 34.48 knots—nearly 40 miles—an hour.

The Richmond, first of 10 light cruisers now building, came from the Cramp shipbuilding yards in Philadelphia. The Omaha is being put in commission on the Pacific coast and some of the others will be the Milwaukee.

Observers figured after the tests that the Richmond could go from New York to Porto Rico in 48 hours, and could cross the Atlantic within four days, even by sacrificing some speed to make her fuel supply last.

The record crossing was made by the Mauretania in 1910 in four days, 10 hours and 41 minutes. The Mauretania averages from 25 to 27 knots an hour.

The new ships, popularly known as scout cruisers, were originally authorized in 1916. They were held up during the war because of the need of concentrating all the country's shipbuilding energies on destroyers and freighters, and were then re-designed to take advantage of the lessons learned from actual battle experience in the North Sea.

These graceful speed ships look scarcely larger than destroyers, but they are 550 feet long, almost as long as such transatlantic liners as the new Resolute and Reliance. They carry batteries of twelve 6-inch guns and 10 torpedo tubes, as well as powerful radio equipment and two airplanes for scouting service. Their mastsheads are the highest in the world, being 200 feet from mainmast to waterline.

Some small destroyers have been known to touch 35 knots an hour, but the Richmond's performance in a series of runs in the open sea marks a new speed era for big ships.

The United States Navy has just put this new light cruiser through her paces off the Maine coast. The Richmond shattered all existing navy records for ships above the destroyer class. The high speed was 34.48 knots—nearly 40 miles—an hour.

SPREAD! NEW CRUISER FASTEST SHIP AFLOAT CAN CROSS ATLANTIC IN FOUR DAYS

NEW U. S. BATTLE CRUISER RICHMOND, MAKING RECORD RUN OFF MAINE COAST.

Philadelphia, June 2.—The fastest ship afloat isn't the speedy Mauretania, nor one of those trim little navy destroyers. It's the Richmond, a 7,000-ton steel fighting machine that is as big as many transatlantic liners.

The United States Navy has just put this new light cruiser through her paces off the Maine coast. The Richmond shattered all existing navy records for ships above the destroyer class. The high speed was 34.48 knots—nearly 40 miles—an hour.

The Richmond, first of 10 light cruisers now building, came from the Cramp shipbuilding yards in Philadelphia. The Omaha is being put in commission on the Pacific coast and some of the others will be the Milwaukee.

Observers figured after the tests that the Richmond could go from New York to Porto Rico in 48 hours, and could cross the Atlantic within four days, even by sacrificing some speed to make her fuel supply last.

The record crossing was made by the Mauretania in 1910 in four days, 10 hours and 41 minutes. The Mauretania averages from 25 to 27 knots an hour.

The new ships, popularly known as scout cruisers, were originally authorized in 1916. They were held up during the war because of the need of concentrating all the country's shipbuilding energies on destroyers and freighters, and were then re-designed to take advantage of the lessons learned from actual battle experience in the North Sea.

These graceful speed ships look scarcely larger than destroyers, but they are 550 feet long, almost as long as such transatlantic liners as the new Resolute and Reliance. They carry batteries of twelve 6-inch guns and 10 torpedo tubes, as well as powerful radio equipment and two airplanes for scouting service. Their mastsheads are the highest in the world, being 200 feet from mainmast to waterline.

Some small destroyers have been known to touch 35 knots an hour, but the Richmond's performance in a series of runs in the open sea marks a new speed era for big ships.

Celebrates 50th Anniversary of Arrival in City

Mrs. Milan G. Ward entertained a group of pioneer women at her beautiful farm home six miles north of Bismarck yesterday at a 1 o'clock luncheon in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the arrival of Mrs. Oscar Ward in Bismarck.

The hostess was assisted in serving the six course luncheon by Miss Aldyth Ward, daughter of Mrs. Oscar Ward. The tables were decorated with large bouquets of wild flowers native to the Dakota prairies. Seated at the tables were Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Eliza Suttle, Mrs. Oscar Will, Mrs. Lucinda Logan, Mrs. Molly Epinger, Mrs. John Whalen.

The afternoon was spent by the women in reminiscence and in playing bridge with Mrs. Whalen winning the honors at bridge.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ward and three children Jeanette, Belle and Ralph arrived in Bismarck fifty years ago June 1 in a covered wagon drawn by two teams of oxen, coming from Albert Lea, Minn., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward and Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson. For three days they camped on what is the present site of the Northern Pacific station while they arranged the legal preliminaries to settling on their home which was located on what is now Wild Wood. They purchased logs for their home from Henry Suttle, a pioneer settler.

One story which aroused mirth during the afternoon was the remembrance of an incident happening to the Ward families as they were leaving their camping ground for their new home. When the slow oxen teams drawing heavy laden wagons crossed the Northern Pacific embankment about a block north of the present station they delayed the railroad workmen by wearing down a part of the newly piled banks to their dismay and loudly expressed disgust of the workers who were hasty to Bismarck and free whiskey as it termed.

PLEATS, RUFFLES, SMOCKING TRIM SUMMER FROCKS

Thin summer dresses achieve charming effects by the use of smocking, pleats and ruffles. Linen was the material used for the straight line dress with full length pleats sketched in the illustration. The new side-closing is attractive, and the frock with its long, plain sleeves and narrow belt has an air of once simply and fashionable. Very short sleeves make the conter dress attractive for hot weather and the shoulder smocking breaks the severity of the bateau neckline. Smocking is used on the other frock too, and its softness is complemented by tiers of rilly feminine flounces. Organdie is still the favorite fabric for these ruffled gowns and painted cottons or silks are used for the untriumphed straight-line dresses.

Steels, corresponding secretary; Miss Lucille Dahl, treasurer; Mrs. W. W. Meyer, registrar; Mrs. A. M. Christianson, historian.

It was decided at this meeting that next year the meetings should be in the form of noon day luncheons down town. The two gold medals given by the local D. A. R. chapter to the two students standing highest in the Junior high school in history were presented to Paul Mowry of Richholt with a grade of 98 and to Paul Cook of William Moore school with a grade of 95. Although both boys were absent Mrs. Christianson explained to the ladies the reason for the medals. She stated that the women decided to give these prizes in order to encourage deeper interest in the United States history. This is the second time that the medals have been presented.

Acting as hostesses were the past regents, Mrs. E. A. Thorberg and Mrs. Grady. Mrs. E. J. Taylor was unable to assist because of being out of town. Luncheon was served by the women at the close of the meeting.

PLEATS, RUFFLES, SMOCKING TRIM SUMMER FROCKS

Thin summer dresses achieve charming effects by the use of smocking, pleats and ruffles. Linen was the material used for the straight line dress with full length pleats sketched in the illustration. The new side-closing is attractive, and the frock with its long, plain sleeves and narrow belt has an air at once simply and fashionable. Very short sleeves make the center dress attractive for hot weather and the shoulder smocking breaks the severity of the bateau neckline. Smocking is used on the other frock too, and its softness is complemented by tiers of ruffled flounces. Organdie is still the favorite fabric for these ruffled gowns and painted cottons or silks are used for the untrimmed straight-line dresses.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

NO DEMAND FOR SPECIAL ELECTION

Governor Nestos' announcement that he sees no need of forcing a special election upon the voters of North Dakota will meet with instant approval from all but the professional propagandists who thrive and profit from political turmoil much to the detriment of the best interests of the state.

North Dakota is slowly recovering from the scars of too frequent elections and heated controversy. The administration is seeking to find solid ground and bring order out of chaos. If this work is to be successful the fewer elections the better.

What the state needs most now is earnest toil and thrift in the management of public affairs. There has been a marked improvement in the credit of the state already. Political subdivisions find it easier to finance their needs. The state even though burdened with an ill-advised program of state ownership is slowly getting its financial house in order against that day when the people of the state will be cured of the few remaining vagaries that have and continue to foist an unwarranted tax load upon the people.

With the state's balance sheet looking better each month and prospects of active farm settlement there is every reason to believe the future is bright. North Dakota has some practical economic problems to solve if her population is to grow and her vacant acres are to be brought under production. Special elections merely unsettle conditions, stir up strife and militate against the program of restoring equilibrium in this state.

Gov. Nestos should continue to discourage a special election—the presidential primaries are less than a year distant.

PREDICT CHEAPER FUEL

Lignite is forcing attention from eastern scientists and the next few years is bound to see greater distribution and consumption. Figures presented by Rate Expert Smart show the rapid increase in the consumption. Lignite produced in North Dakota has increased from 502,628 tons in 1914 to the impressive total of 1,057,823 in 1922.

Now lignite is prominently discussed in Montreal at a session of the fuels division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. O. P. Hood, chief mechanical engineer of the United States bureau of mines make the following statement of vital interest to this section of the state probably the greatest lignite field in America:

"The bureau of mines is investigating the possibilities of a program, which has for its main features an inexpensive carbonizing device and the use of the lignite char direct, without briquetting.

"Lignite char can best be described in a few words as a fuel rather near in analysis to anthracite coal, but softer, with a little more volatile matter, and thus kindling easier. In size it grades from pea coal to smaller sizes, and is a stable product. Whether a market can be developed for such a fuel at prices around $5 a ton at the mines remains to be shown, but it is at least encouraging to know that Germany used last year 400,000 tons of similar materials for domestic heating and cooking.

"This fuel burns well with natural draft where a thin fuel bed can be maintained. Base burners, cook stoves and other heaters can be adapted to use the fuel satisfactorily. The Germans have developed a special stove, burning the fuel on a bed of ash in an inclosed drawer. There is no loss of fuel in the ash and lignite char used in such a stove heats an oven sufficiently for baking operations and will boil water. It makes a very clean fire, is smokeless and the char is clean to handle."

END OF GASOLINE ENGINE NEARING

Engineers who have been predicting the end of the gasoline engine for motor travel look upon the recently announced invention of a "Baby Diesel" for automobiles as one of the most important advancements in the history of the industry.

The compressed air engine and the steam car are considered successors of the expensive gasoline vehicle. The "Baby Diesel" announced by J. J. Tynan, general manager of the San Francisco plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, confirms this prediction. After watching tests made with this compressed air engine, Tynan predicted automobiles going 50 miles to a gallon of fuel and with no gears to shift!

"The tests, conducted over a period of months with a 50-horsepower engine, have demonstrated beyond all doubt that it can be done," says Tynan.

"Engines of 3000, 300 and 30 horsepower are now being constructed and following satisfactory tests with them, quantity production probably will be started in the near future."

The Diesel engines, hitherto only constructed in sizes adapted to the largest ocean vessels, will be operated for automotive purposes by the light and cheap oil such as is now used on naval submarines.

Gear shifting will be entirely eliminated as the engine itself is reversible and the transmission is so devised as to allow the interlocking parts to slide back and forth.

Greater stamina than any auto engine now in use also is claimed for the new invention.

While complete description of the invention is being withheld, it is stated that the engines are built to work on low compression and low fuel oil pressure. However, the full Diesel principle is retained.

HINDENBURG

Hindenburg tells McMahon, American captain, that he expects another war very shortly. "I look for a struggle between the United States and Japan."

Hindy has been expecting that for a good many years. He's an old man, and the aged are unable to get rid of their obsessions. Nature kindly sends death about the time our brain cells begin petrifying. No one is really old as long as he can change his viewpoint—keep up with changing times.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

THE WEAKER (D) SEX

For the benefit of the head of the house, the gentleman who believes that without his heroic protection terrible things might happen to the women of the family, it might be mentioned that an "all woman" expedition into the jungles of wild Africa is the latest venture.

One Mrs. Della G. Akley has been commissioned by the Brooklyn museum to hunt big game specimens in the jungles there. And in the company she takes with her, there will be only members of her own sex, the sex which the above-mentioned head of the house has been kidding himself into believing used to be afraid to pick up a gun.

Which reminds us, unless our memory fails us, we have seen many recent stories of women hunting big game in the wilds of Africa. Safety for the hunter in the pastime of chasing lions, tigers and other dangerous beasts, depends upon a "cool head and a quick trigger finger," and judging by our experience with humanity, we can't see where man has the market cornered on the ability to act quickly and intelligently.

Little by little man is tottering from the pedestal to which he hoisted himself when the Neanderthal type lived in the caves of the Old World. Before many more centuries have passed he may know enough to accept the woman on a 50-50 basis, in solving life's endless problems. Little Rock Arkansas Democrat.

THE TOURIST CAMP

Denver is advertising the opening of its automobile touring camp for the season. It is probably the most pretentious place of the kind in the country, and cost the city $250,000. There are comfortable accommodations for taking care of hundreds of campers at a time. Everything necessary is within easy reach. Fifty thousand guests are expected during the season.

Is it worth the money and trouble? Denver thinks so. It expects big profit from the money the tourists will spend in the city, and still bigger profit from the good impression of Denver that they will carry away. Whether as a commercial investment or an advertising scheme, it is considered thoroughly satisfactory.

Hundreds of other cities and towns in the West look at the matter in the same way, and many of them are coming to be known favorably throughout the land because of their kindly and thoughtful reception of summer visitors. The substantial merits have been there all the time, but it took the tourist camp to make them known. Every pleased tourist is a voluntary publicity agent.

The Eastern part of the country has been strangely slow to realize the value of this kind of hospitality, and loses accordingly. —Elmira Star Gazette.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

The tatie-patch and the sas patch garden and the posy garden were all drying up.

The little Raggies had carried water and carried water, but it all seemed to be of no use.

Old Mister Sun was getting so hot and so thirsty that he drank up all the water the Twins and the little fairy folk could bring from the creek.

"I'm sure I don't know what to do next," panted poor little Mister Tatters as he set down an empty bucket.

"It's like pouring water onto the kitchen stove. Snip! Snip! And it's gone! What we need is a good pouring rain. We haven't had one for a month."

"I think Mister Sprinkle Blow has gone to sleep in the sky," declared Nick. "He usually has a lot of rain barrels out on a cloud and turns the spigot."

"Oh, Nick," cried Nancy. "We have our magic shoes. Let's go up to Bluster. Gust Land and see what is wrong."

"Oh, will you?" said little Mister Tatters gratefully. "I'd be ever so much obliged."

"We'd all be ever so much obliged," added Rag Tag. "Our backs are nearly broken carrying water."

So the Twins wished, and quick as two winks they were carried up and up and up through the air to Bluster Gust Land. They soon found Mister Sprinkle Blow's house and knocked loudly on the door. No answer.

Nancy went in. It turned, so they went in.

And there was Mister Sprinkle Blow sound asleep.

"Oh, my! My goodness!" he exclaimed when he heard the dreadful state of affairs. "I ought to be ashamed of myself. Here, Nancy. Here, Nick. Help me roll out this barrel marked 'Regular Pourdowns,' will you? Thank you. Now I'll turn the spigot."

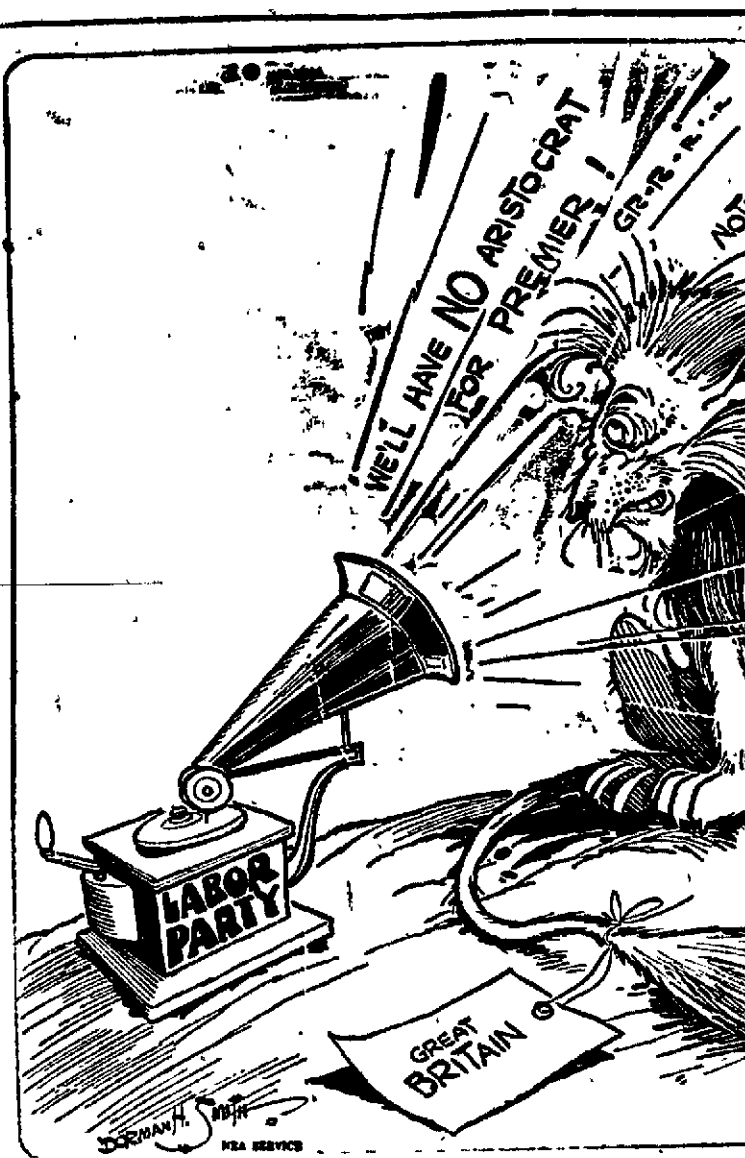

Down on the earth the Raggies were doing a dance. "That's a fine rain," they cried.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

DEAR JACK:

Enclosed please find my check for five hundred dollars. Words fail me when I try to express my opinion of you.

Please tell Leslie that whenever she wants to apply for divorce to come to me and I will supply her with plenty of evidence.

Sorry you are in a mess, old boy, but expect it comes to every young married man who jumps "out of the frying pan into the fire" as it were.

Wish I had more money to send you but at present my bank account is very low.

Love to Leslie and tell her I'll make that promised first visit soon.

Letter from Mrs. Mary Alden Prescott to her son, John Alden Prescott.

MY DEAR SON:

I was talking yesterday with Arthur Peterson and he told me work was rather slack now, so if I would let him do my house painting at this time he would do it very much cheaper.

In fact, he said he would do the house for three hundred and twenty-five dollars.

I think it is quite necessary that the house should be painted as you know paint is such a preservative of wood and the old homestead has not been painted since your dear father passed away.

Of course I hate to ask you for any money just at this time but do you not think, my dear son, that even though you are married, you owe something to your mother? I will be able to pay a hundred and forty dollars on the home bill if you can make up the rest to me.

Life, that ever needs forgiveness, has for its first duty to forgive.

Affectionately your mother, MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT.

As Calvin Gray rose to his feet it was with a flash of mingled anger and impatience. This quarrel was so utterly senseless, it served so little purpose.

"My friend," he cried, sharply, "if you don't put up that gun—of us will go to the hospital."

By way of rousing his sagacity, the fellow uttered a bellow, then, with a warrior's smile, he shielded with his spear-belt the charge, he swung his heavy weapon, something at one blow that silver-plated merry-go-round with its cluster of bottles.

A shower of toothpicks, fragments of glass, a spatter of oil and vinegar.

That which occurred next came unexpectedly. The stranger snatched out from under his coat a revolver, at the same time voicing a profane answer to the challenge.

Gray came aware as he spoke that his elderly neighbor had raised to the intruder, a countenance stamped with a peculiar expression of incredulity, almost of anger, at the interruption.

Gray came aware as he spoke that his elderly neighbor had raised to the intruder, a countenance stamped with a peculiar expression of incredulity, almost of anger, at the interruption.

Dear Priscilla Bradford had had a letter from a friend in Albany and she wrote she had met Leslie many times lunching at the smart hotels, looking very gay and beautiful. Although she had not been to call on her as yet, she had heard that you had one of the most beautiful and elegantly furnished apartments in all the city of Albany.

By the way, that beautiful old leather chair which your father always sat in is in great need of repairs. It will be yours and Leslie's when I am gone if it does not fall to pieces before that time.

Some way I am not feeling as well as usual this spring. So many of my friends are passing out and I am very lonely. I think I should hardly be able to bear up under it if it were not for dear Priscilla Bradford, who visits me often and we always talk of you and Leslie.

Give my love to Leslie and tell her I shall be pleased to have her write me if she can find time in her gay honeymoon.

Affectionately your mother, MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT.

The drunken man hesitated, he cast a slow glance around the room then muttering, hoarsely, he turned and made for the door. He was followed by a burst of derisive laughter that grew louder as he went.

Gray was in a better mood now than for several hours; he had vented his irritation; the air had cleared. After a while he discovered that he was hungry; no longer was he too resentful to heed the healthy warning of his stomach, so he left the place.

CHAPTER XIX
A Cold, Bad Man

Newtown's eating places were not appetizing at best, but a meal could be endured with less discomfort by day for a such times most of the flies were on the ceilings. The restaurant which Gray entered was what he had expected; along one side ran a quick-order counter at which were seated several customers; across it was an oilcloth-covered table, perfectly bare except for a revolving centerpiece—one of those silver-plated whirligigs fitted with a glass salt-and-pepper shaker, a toothpick holder and an unpleasant oil bottle, and a cruet intended for vinegar. Here, facing an elderly man in a wide gray felt hat, Gray seated himself.

When a departing customer left the door open, the elderly diner grumbled bitterly at the draught and draped his overcoat over his bent shoulders.

Most of the counter's customers had drifted out when, without warning, the screen door banged loudly open and Gray looked up from his plate to see his recent acquaintance of the gambling table approaching. He lurched directly up to the table and stared across at Gray.

"Slapped my face, didn't you?" he cried, after a menacing moment.

"I did, indeed," the speaker nodded, pleasantly.

"You ain't going to slap it again. You ain't going to slap anybody's—"

"What makes you think I won't?" Gray became aware as he spoke that his elderly neighbor had raised to the intruder, a countenance stamped with a peculiar expression of incredulity, almost of anger, at the interruption.

FLOWING GOLD

Copyright 1923 by NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray comes to Dallas and rents the most expensive hotel suite in the city. He is the enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bill Nelson, banker. Gray falls in love with Barbara Parker, who buys land for Nelson and he suggests that she also purchase land for him. Gus Briskow, friend of Gray, takes Mr. Briskow and Alighiero, the daughter, to the mountains. Gray visits them there. A message comes saying that Bud Briskow, the son, has run away from school and Gray offers to follow him and bring him home. Gray returns to Dallas to see Barbara Parker.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

During the early dusk Gray returned to the lease, only to find even the greasy caretaker gone. By this time he was decidedly uncomfortable, and, to add to his discomfort, he conceived the notion that he was being followed. On second thought he dismissed this idea, nevertheless he took a roundabout course back toward the main street.

Before long Gray found himself in a superheated, overcrowded back room with a stack of silver dollars which he scattered carelessly upon the numbers of a roulette table. Roulette was much like the oil game, this was a good way in which to kill an hour.

Absorbed in his own thoughts, Gray paid little heed to those about him, until a large hand picked up one of his bets. Then he raised his eyes. The hand was attached to a muscular arm, which in turn was attached to a burly stranger of unpleasant mien. Gray voiced a good-natured protest, but the fellow scowled and refused to acknowledge his mistake. Noting that the man was flushed, Gray shrugged and allowed the incident to pass. This bootleg whiskey from across Red River was of a quality to sear a person's eyesight.

For some time the game continued before Gray wove again, and the dealer deposited thirty-five silver dollars beside his bet. Again that sun-browned hand reached forth but this time Gray seized it by the wrist.

With a wrench the man undertook to free his hand; he uttered a threatening oath. The next instant he was treated to a surprise, for Gray jerked him forward and smugly, his empty palm struck the fellow a blinding, resounding smack. Again he snuffed the fellow's face, this time from the other side. When he finally desisted, the stranger rocked in his tracks; he shook his head; he blinked and he cursed, it was a moment before he could focus his whirling sight upon his assailant. When he succeeded it was to behold the latter staring at him with a mocking threatening smile.

The drunken man hesitated, he cast a slow glance around the room then muttering, hoarsely, he turned and made for the door. He was followed by a burst of derisive laughter that grew louder as he went.

Gray was in a better mood now than for several hours; he had vented his irritation; the air had cleared. After a while he discovered that he was hungry; no longer was he too resentful to heed the healthy warning of his stomach, so he left the place.

CHAPTER XIX
A Cold, Bad Man

Newtown's eating places were not appetizing at best, but a meal could be endured with less discomfort by day for a such times most of the flies were on the ceilings. The restaurant which Gray entered was what he had expected; along one side ran a quick-order counter at which were seated several customers; across it was an oilcloth-covered table, perfectly bare except for a revolving centerpiece—one of those silver-plated whirligigs fitted with a glass salt-and-pepper shaker, a toothpick holder and an unpleasant oil bottle, and a cruet intended for vinegar. Here, facing an elderly man in a wide gray felt hat, Gray seated himself.

When a departing customer left the door open, the elderly diner grumbled bitterly at the draught and draped his overcoat over his bent shoulders.

Most of the counter's customers had drifted out when, without warning, the screen door banged loudly open and Gray looked up from his plate to see his recent acquaintance of the gambling table approaching. He lurched directly up to the table and stared across at Gray.

"Slapped my face, didn't you?" he cried, after a menacing moment.

"I did, indeed," the speaker nodded, pleasantly.

"You ain't going to slap it again. You ain't going to slap anybody's—"

"What makes you think I won't?" Gray became aware as he spoke that his elderly neighbor had raised to the intruder, a countenance stamped with a peculiar expression of incredulity, almost of anger, at the interruption.

That which occurred next came unexpectedly. The stranger snatched out from under his coat a revolver, at the same time voicing a profane answer to the challenge.

Gray came aware as he spoke that his elderly neighbor had raised to the intruder, a countenance stamped with a peculiar expression of incredulity, almost of anger, at the interruption.

JAMESTOWN IS VICTOR IN 4TH SERIES GAME

Whiting's Team Takes Game From Bismarck, 9 to 7, in Free Hitting Contest

PLAYED UNDER PROTEST

Jamestown, N. D., June 2.—Though without doubt both Bismarck and Jamestown were materially strengthened by changes in their lineups yesterday the teamwork was temporarily disrupted and the game, which Jamestown won 9 to 7, was not as good as any of the three previous games in which Jamestown was defeated.

Manager Tom Shanley of the Bismarck club released Schipp, first baseman, Oates, shortstop, left field, pitchers, Throckmorton and Hettman. Charles Boardman was on first, with Al Bernier pitching his first game for Bismarck, while Randall was behind the bat for Bismarck and Noll, who has been catching, was in left field. Noll may be kept as a utility man, since Dougan is subject to recall on short notice.

Umpire Tony Z. was announced to the fans that Jamestown was playing game under protest, awaiting rulings as to eligibility of Bismarck players. It was understood that Whiting questioned whether Bismarck was under the player limit. Yet Shanley had already released four men. Since Jamestown won, Whiting will withdraw the protest. Bernier and Buck Enger both went good for five innings. Enger had four strikeouts and Bernier five in the first five innings. Enger allowed four hits and passed one man. Bernier allowed five hits and Bernier went five innings.

In the sixth inning with one down Bernier got a three-bagger with one on through an error by Schulz and Whiting pulled Enger, putting in Finch. Three of the first four men who faced Finch were walked and Geschel finished the inning and game. Howard Rolph, local boy, caught for Jamestown. The two teams played Sunday at 3 P. M. Bismarck: 000 012 300—9 8 4. Jamestown: 001 202 028—9 8 4.

Batteries: Bernier and Dougan, Enger, Finch, Geschel and Rolph.

CARRINGTON WINS

Minot, N. D., June 2.—Carrington-New Rockford broke Minot's winning streak of six games and won their first contest of the season yesterday, 8 to 6, when they scored seven runs in the seventh on a combination of hits and loose fielding.

Score: R. H. E. Carrington-New Rockford—8 5 2. Minot—000 210 030—6 11 6.

COLOR MARKS BIG LEAGUES DAY'S PLAY

Big Scores Along With Fine Pitching in Some Instances Are Recorded

Chicago, June 2.—There was more color in the major league baseball games yesterday than has been flashed on the diamond for some time.

A lot of vivacity was furnished by old John Pious Quinn, an iron man among the veterans in the sporting world, who are enjoying a prosperous year. Cast off by the New York Yankees two years ago he performed his favorite pleasure of beating them yesterday 5 to 0, the seventh time out of nine attempts that he has accomplished it since he was sent away. He showed no fear of Babe Ruth, striking him out once. But Babe's attitude became reciprocal and he got three hits.

The result lifted the Red Sox from the cellar to sixth place, the Chicago White Sox dropping into the basement from the blows of the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 5, and Washington in to seventh place before the onrush of the Philadelphia Athletics who regained second place winning twice 7 to 4 and 4 to 2.

It was the Athletics double victory that shoved Cleveland back in to third place, the one-day tenancy of that position being granted the Red Sox before they entered ill-fated. There was another flash of color in the Indian game, Detroit losing 17 to 4. The defeat sent Detroit into the second division.

The New York Giants spent three hours trimming the Philadelphia Quakers 22 to 8 and setting a record by making at least one run every inning.

The speeding Red Legs of Cincinnati downed the Cubs again, 5 to 3, gaining one point on St. Louis. The Cards won their second straight from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3 in 11 innings.

Leo Dickerman, Brooklyn recruit, was without control for his second consecutive time and the Braves knocked him out of the box, winning 11 to 6.

Holloway, Rigney and Blue completed a triple play against Cleve-

DODGERS AND CARDS, TALK TRADE

Rickey Wants A Pitcher; Brooklyn Is After Infielder Toporcher

TOPORCHER

By BILLY EVANS
With the ban on late trades in the major league circuits, managers are dickering around at present on swaps that will be legal before the time limit arrives.

One which is going through the preliminary stage at present is an offer made by the Brooklyn Superbas to the St. Louis Cardinals for infielder Toporcher, who gained fame by hopping from the New York corner lots to the National League although handicapped with weak eyes to the extent of wearing glasses.

If the Superbas obtain Toporcher, then Scott Latty Sutton of Brooklyn will be able to enter President Charles Ebbetts' private office and shout with glee.

Sutton saw Toporcher as a semi-pro in New York several years ago and recommended the youngster to the owner of the Dodgers. But before presenting all of the evidence in the case Sutton neglected to tell Ebbetts that his young phenom lacked glasses behind the ears.

When the Brooklyn owner heard about this, he shook Sutton out of the suite, three stairs at a time.

Rickey Took a Chance
Branch Rickey risked and gained. He experimented with Toporcher and like everybody else last season was convinced that Toporcher, wearing glasses, could hit better than many youths credited with having perfect eyesight.

In 1922 Toporcher, playing in 116 games for the Cardinals, had a batting average of .323. He was a fence land in the first inning, the first man in the American League this year.

Minot, N. D., June 2.—Baseball players in the present Minot-New Rockford-Carrington series will probably meet and argue the umpire, because the man with the indicator in games here was none other than Babe Safo of Minneapolis, well known professional middleweight boxer and expert bag puncher. Safo was recently appointed by President Logan Powell of the state, as one of the two official arbiters of the North Dakota State League.

Mr. Safo is a veteran of the World war, having gone from the ranks to officers training school at Camp Pike, Ark., where he was a lieutenant. He is said to bear the distinction of being the only professional boxer to win a commission in the World war.

Safo is an all round athlete, being an expert in boxing, bag punching, baseball, handball and football. He formerly played halfback on the Marine football team of Minneapolis, one of the strongest professional grid teams in the country. He has boxed such men as Mike Gibbons, Mike O'Dowd, Dick Graves and others and was at one time a contender for the middleweight title. He has spent the last two years in California, with headquarters at Venice. During that time he has engaged in a number of battles and exhibitions as well as taking minor parts in a few moving pictures. His home is at Minneapolis.

Mr. Safo states that he would like some time to have an opportunity to show some of his pugilistic tricks to Minot fans.

HEILMAN HAS NEW RIVAL IN HITTING RACE

Ruel, Catcher for Washington in Americans, Makes Sensational Gain

WHEAT LEAD GOES UP

Chicago, June 2.—Harold "Muddy" Ruel, catcher for the Washington Senators, is challenging Harry Heilmann, the Detroit veteran for batting honors of the American League. Ruel gained 4 points during week and is runner-up to the Tiger slugger with an average of .403. Heilmann, suffered a slight batting slump but still tops the players who have participated in 25 or more games with a mark of .425. Dick Reiche, of the Red Sox is third with .382. The figures include games of last Wednesday.

Eddie Collins, of the White Sox, continues to play brilliantly. From present figures it would appear that Collins is going to have one of his best years. He is leading all major league players in stolen bases with 16 thefts. Only four less than he pilfered all last season. He also is hobnobbing with the leading batters.

Numerous fans and critics predict that Babe Ruth will pass the veteran Philadelphia Cy Williams in home run hitting before Independence Day. Williams has made four baggers, and Ruth eleven. Ruth is leading in total bases with 95, his hits besides the circuit drives including 10 doubles and four triples. Ruth also leads as a run getter with 37.

Other leading batters: Cobb, Detroit, .355; Miller, Philadelphia, .352; E. Collins, Chicago, .349; Jameson, Cleveland, .342; S. Rice, Washington, .339; Burns, Boston, .336; Welch, Philadelphia, .336; Ruth, New York, .333; Watt, New York, .329; Williams, St. Louis, .329.

Johnny Mokon of the Phillies and Clyde Barnhart of the Pirates are making rapid strides toward the top among the batters of the National League far down in the list a week ago, they the smashing out base hits regularly. Mokon got 19 blows his last ten games, and Barnhart sold ten hits in six games. Mokon's mark went from 333 to 358, and Barnhart's rose from 311 to 353.

Zack Wheat, Dodger outfielder, increased his lead among the regulars from 417 to 424. He obtained 13 hits in his last six games. His nearest rival is Charley Grimm of the Pirates, who has 400.

Frankie Frisch of the Giants leads the run-getters with 38, and Sammy Bohne of Cincinnati is showing the way to the base stealers with 11.

"Cy" Williams, of the Phillies, is in front among the major league home hitters with 18.

Williams, besides leading in four baggers, has made nine doubles and three triples.

Other leading batters: Southworth, Boston, .379; Bottomley, St. Louis, .376; Mokon, Philadelphia, .373; Hornsby, St. Louis, .370; Frisch, New York, .367; Young, New York, .367; Barnhart, Pittsburgh, .353; Williams, Philadelphia, .351; Neis, Brooklyn, .345; Plack, St. Louis, .345; Bagwell, Boston, .345.

Joe Riggett, of St. Paul star, by getting an even dozen hits in his last eight games has climbed fast in the American Association. Bunny Brief, of Kansas City Blues still leads, however. Brief, with an average of .412, is also proving himself the best run-getter with 40 tallies and is far out in front among the home run hitters with 12 circuit blows. Brief also has nine doubles and three triples, which places him first in total bases with 98.

J. Smith of Toledo is Brief's nearest rival in batting with 397.

Eddie Murphy of Columbus is showing the way to the base stealers with 13 thefts.

Other leading batters: Combs, Louisville, .375; Lamar, Toledo, .363; East, Minneapolis, .367; Ribbert, St. Paul, .348; Brown, Indianapolis, .346; E. Murphy, Columbus, .346; Christenbury, Indianapolis, .342; Drensen, St. Paul, .341.

Do You Know Baseball?

ONE—If a fielder muffs a foul fly and the batsman is finally retired, is the fielder who made the palpable miff charged with an error or does the fact that the batsman is retired remove it?

TWO—Catcher in attempting to retire runner trying to steal second, throws wild, the runner reaching third on the play. How is it scored?

THREE—If a thrown ball to get a runner at the plate is wide of its mark, the ball striking the wire netting, same being the regulation distance from the plate, and remains in the meshes of the screen, how does it affect the advancement of the runners?

FOUR—If catcher drops a third strike that permits the runner to reach first, the third strike being a perfect pitch, is the pitcher credited with a strikeout and the catcher an error?

FIVE—If home and visiting team captains are unable to agree on ground rules governing overflew crowd, how is such a dispute settled?

ANSWERS
ONE—Fielder is charged with error on palpable miff of a foul fly regardless of whether or not batsman is retired.

TWO—Runner is credited with a stolen base, and catcher charged with an error for the wild throw that enabled runner to advance an extra base.

THREE—If ball remains in green that is regulation distance, it is considered same as if ball went in to the stand. All runners are entitled to advance two bases.

FOUR—Catcher credited with strikeout. Catcher charged with error if he fails to catch the ball.

FIVE—If two captains are unable to agree on ground rules it is up to the umpire to settle the dispute.

BOXING DEAD, SAYS MAYOR

Chicago, June 1.—"Boxing is a dead sport," Mayor William E. Dever declared last night when informed that James Mullen, promoter of last Tuesday's engagement between Benny Leonard and Pinkey Mitchell, which ended in a fist fight between spectators had failed to appear in court to face a charge of promoting a prize fight.

City attorneys claimed Mullen had agreed to let the strength provisions of the Illinois anti-prize fight law by allowing himself to be arrested and carrying the case to the supreme court. Mullen's case was continued for a week by John Gallagher, who was a spectator at last Tuesday night's fight, was arrested charged with looking at the match and this may be made a test case.

The city will in the future obtain injunctions against the promoters prohibiting the matches city attorneys said today.

Chicago, June 2.—Wheat suffered a sharp break in price at the opening today but quickly rallied. Heavy liquidating sales on the part of holders were responsible for the break, whereas extensive covering by shorts brought about a reaction. Selling out appeared in a great large measure to be due to bearish views regarding government measures to regulate trading and this tendency was offset more or less by the posting of a notice from the government supervisors here denying that a limit had been placed on the amount of trade.

Opening prices which varied from unchanged figures to one cent lower with July, $1.09 3-4 to $1.10 and September, $1.09 1-2 to $1.09 7-8 was followed by a drop of nearly 2 cents in some cases and then by a recovery to about yesterday's finish.

After paying support for the wheat market than has been shown for sometime developed today near the end of the board of trade session. Bulls contended that liquidation had run its course and that a rally in prices was to be looked for.

The close was unsettled 1-8 to 5-cents net higher, with July, $1.10 3-4 to $1.10 1-2.

SUNDAY DANCE
LEGAL? COURT WILL DECIDE

A suit in which it is expected to be determined whether dancing on Sunday is violative of the Sunday laws of this state has been instituted in District court by William Langner, attorney, in behalf of a Walsh county dance hall proprietor. The proprietor's license was revoked by Attorney-General Shanley, he alleged, because he permitted dancing on Sunday. This, he alleged, is not a violation of law. The law provides that a license can be revoked if the licensee violates the law. Under the law, a license is issued on a certiorari writ. A hearing will be held on June 14.

DEPENDENTS ARE TRACED

Children of Man Killed in North Dakota to Get Aid

After a long effort to trace dependents, the Workmen's Compensation Bureau has awarded and is paying compensation because of the death last September of William Albers, who was injured while working for the McCanna Farming and Elevator Company, at McCanna, Grand Forks county, contracted tetanus and died.

At first it was believed he had no relatives. G. N. Livdahl, member of the bureau said, but later it was found his former home was in Loup City, Ia., and the body sent there for burial. His wife had been in an insane hospital for years but no divorce had been granted. There were six children scattered among relatives and friends. The Bureau tried to get someone to take hold of the matter and see if dependency could be established but had difficulty until a county judge at Loup City became interested. Mr. Livdahl said. He appointed R. D. Henderson guardian of the insane widow and minor children.

The Bureau has just completed the award, totalling about $12,000, under which payments will be made regularly for support of the widow until she dies or remarries and support of the children which ceases whenever a child becomes 18 years old. The payments will be $24 each two weeks. A lump sum of $428 was also allowed.

STARK CO. MAN GOES TO PEN

Supreme Court Upholds
Conviction of Clifford McCarty

Four years after the alleged offense was committed the supreme court today affirmed the verdict of guilty against Clifford A. McCarty of Stark county charged with stealing calves and the prison sentence of 31-2 years will be executed.

McCarty was found guilty in Stark county in 1920. He was granted a new trial in April, 1921. He was convicted again in December, 1921, this time in Hettinger county. He appealed again and the court upholds the conviction.

McCarty was charged with arranging with two others to steal unbranded calves from a ranch north of Belfield and transporting them to his ranch. His defense was that he came into possession of the calves innocently. The court held that objections to the jury panel because it was dismissed and recalled were without merit, that testimony of two witnesses whose attendances could not be procured, given at a former trial, was properly admitted, and that admission of certain rebuttal testimony concerning the commission of other larcenies was not erroneous. Judge Nuehle presided at the trial in Hettinger county. Judge Burr sat on the supreme court in his place.

QUICK ACTION BRAKES
EXTRA LARGE AND EXTRA SAFE

In the construction of Dodge Brothers Motor Car, every consideration has been given to the owner's safety.

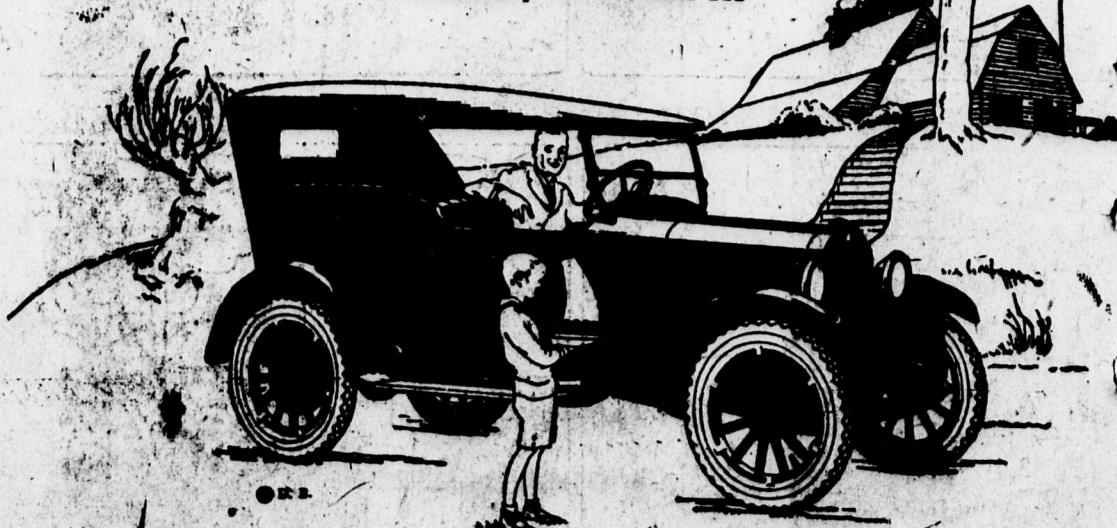

This is particularly evident in the brakes, which, with their 14-inch drums and 2½ inch lining, are appreciably larger than the average. The extra surface thus provided develops greater friction when the brake bands contract over the drums—and it is this friction which stops the car.

Connecting levers are designed to transmit the maximum of power with the minimum of effort. The slightest pressure on the brake pedal has an immediate effect. This pressure is distributed evenly between the two rear wheels by a highly efficient equalizer, which prevents skidding because it retards both wheels simultaneously.

And the brake bands grip evenly all around the drums. This protects the lining against irregular wear and enables the driver to stop quickly, quietly and safely.

The price of the Touring Car is $880 f. o. b. Detroit—$1030 delivered in Bismarck.

THE PENALTY OF POPULARITY

Two years ago Chevrolet brought out their improved model and in one season production jumped from seventh to second place amongst American manufacturers. Less fortunate makers naturally resented this situation, and today the daily papers and magazines are full of advertisements more or less openly attacking Chevrolet construction and explaining why their own parts are better. Nevertheless Chevrolet continues to gain and every owner is a booster. Ask the man who owns one what car to buy, and
